Our Mission

Introduction...

Unraveling the „African Paradox“

Despite vast visible and resourcefulness of the youth, African leaders failed to integrate young brains That will develop the continent and always living in ignorant and selfishness

Stitching African “s Leadership Structural Fault Lines

The Continent leadership under-performance is attributable largely to the many doll brains in higher positions and political structural fault lines that limit its ability to sustain growth, create jobs and achieve real poverty reduction

Redefining The Young leadership Purpose, uniting the youth

Young Leaders needs a unity that is transparently and collectively negotiated and agreed upon

We need to restructure our mindset

Saving Space for the Youth...

Our vision is to be the most preferred global leadership hub committed to developing hidden talents, skills and ideas among young people that brings change in their communities for its people and capable of taking its rightful place among the top world young leaders. Iyp Leadership policy will be job-centered entrepreneurship for our teeming youth population ”

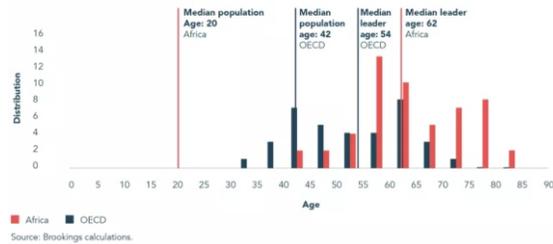

General Overview...

Building Generations of Our Dream...

Young Leadership Growth is slow and uninspiring

Africa has the youngest population globally but some of the world's oldest leaders. The median African leader at 62 years old is 8 years older than the median OECD leader. Furthermore, the age gap between the region's population and leaders is 42 years compared to only 12 for the OECD.

Members of Parliament under 40 years of age

The younger population is also not as well represented in African parliaments. On average, only 14 percent of the region's parliamentarians are younger than 40, which is below the world average. It should be expected to be much higher given that 70 percent of the region's population is under 30 years old.

Source: Inter-Parliamentary Union, data.ipu.org

- Lackluster appointment even after seeing the youth strength in different technologies for the economy and leadership growth
- The Continent GDP growth declined from 5.11% in Q5 2018 to 3.95% in Q1 and 1.5% in Q2 of 2019
- Young peoples development rates below targets in most countries and below population growth rate in the Continent

Involvement remains undiversified

- Although the old leaders knows less in terms of innovation and technologies
- The percentage level of under develop countries in Africa ,is as a result of dull brains in leadership represents 95% of poor developmental mindset and up to 70% of African leaders Embezzle the countries funds meant for projects
- Having, unrepentant, weak, wicked and sluggish leaders, Scatted all over in the continent

Economy In The Continent uncompetitive

- In most African countries ranks out of other countries in the world as the home of extreme poverty competitiveness ranking
- The African ranking is much worse

Great investments in decline

- Due to inhospitable business environment, the economy has failed to attract great investors into the businesses that will uplift the youth out of current situations

Building the Generations of Our Dream...

Principle

- To produce enthusiasm and thriving young people for the development of their communities
- Inter Youths co- operations

- Equality and inter- dependence of young leaders

Principle

- African leaders has not been supportive of the young peoples growth
- The continent has lost great development Since old dictators took over power
- Overall human capacity stability development remains unthinkable

Vision

Raising influential

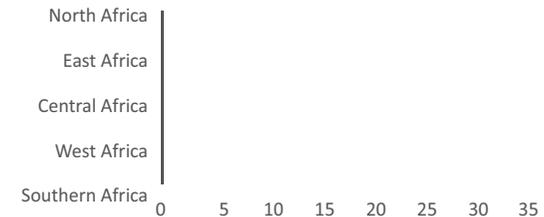

- leaders to deploy full youthful potentials without compromise
A community where youths can access leadership positions and its abundant resources and are able to develop the continent through job creation, innovations and harmonization of potential's with great opportunities under iyp new economic sustainable environment

- An integrated globe where the iyp members enjoys free visa movement globally and quality free education, health systems and free sanitary wears for young girls in school, engage in countries policies and agenda, economic and commercial activities and live in dignity, in an environment of peace and security.
Young people governed in accordance with the principles of democratic modesty, the rule of law and good governance

Priority Needs

The youths in some part of the continent are facing a very tough time settling in their communities where every provision of the social justice has being trampled upon by the leadership. Most are deprived the basic amenities such as education, good health system, a nd safe drinking water and leadership employment programs. The lack of these provisions gave rise to several delinquent youth who are today suffering due to the negligent of the government. High levels of youth unemployment, inadequate opportunities for vocational education and training, especially for persons with disabilities.

- Support and vigorously enforce made-in-the continent initiative by ensuring compliance with the relevant executive procurement agencies order by all African Government

Top Challenges Facing Africa Today

Building the Generations of Our Dream...

- Africa is the world's second largest and-second most populous continent. It has the youngest amongst all and most vibrant brains and hosts a large diversity of ethnicities, cultures and languages.
- All of these features made the continent face the hardest challenges in the world.
- Iyp entrepreneurship investment policy shall seek to strengthen the youths by removing all this identified impediments and ensuring that they have strong linkage with the productive sectors in all the African market to boost the continent economy

Poverty / ill Health

- Although the poverty rate in Africa is falling, rapid population growth means that the number of people suffering poverty keeps growing: Africa is the world's last frontier in the fight against extreme poverty. Today, one in three Africans -422 million people – live below the global poverty line. They represent more than 70 percent of the world's poorest people.
- HEALTH: Health outcomes are worse in Africa than anywhere else in the world, even though life expectancy at birth has risen and chronic malnutrition has declined since the mid- 1990s.

Violence

- VIOLENCE: Tolerance of Domestic violence is twice As high as in the rest of the Developing world. Incidents Of violence against civilians Are on the rise. While this litany of suffering is true throughout sub- Saharan Africa, with regard to all these measures life is particularly harsh for people living in the roughly 34% of African where states have collapsed to the point of irrelevance.

Hunger/ Access to financing

- HUNGER: Of the countries in the world with the worst food and nutrition security, 19 are in Africa.
- FINANCING: About 70 percent of Africans work in agriculture, but only 10% of the total portfolios of commercial banks goes to agriculture, according to the World Bank. Challenging legal and financial environments are constraining growth in African agriculture. For smallholders, especially, credit is often inaccessible or not affordable. Without appropriate financing, farmers are not only less able to invest in their operations but also much more vulnerable to market volatility and unpredictable weather.

Poor Education:

The World Bank Group published its flagship report: the World Development Report (WDR) 2018—Learning to Realize Education's Promise. The report is the first-ever edition of the publication entirely dedicated to education. The 2018 WDR warns of a learning crisis in global education; after several years of schooling, millions of children are unable to read, write, and solve basic math problems. The crisis is more severe for vulnerable children—i.e., that affected by poverty, conflict, gender disparities, or disability—and has led to the widening of social gaps.

The report explains that low-income and developing countries are most affected by the global learning crisis. In low-income countries, less than 5 percent of students in late primary school score above the minimum proficiency level for reading. This figure lies at 14 percent for mathematics. In sub-Saharan Africa, less than 7 percent of students in late primary school are proficient in reading, against 14 percent in mathematics (Figure 1). For instance, when asked to read a sentence such as —The name of the dog is Puppy, three quarters of primary school students in Kenya, Tanzania, and Uganda were unable to understand it. Even students tested using local languages were still unable to comprehend given sentences. The report states that the lags in primary education will affect the children's preparedness for future job prospects, which are increasingly demanding in skills quality.

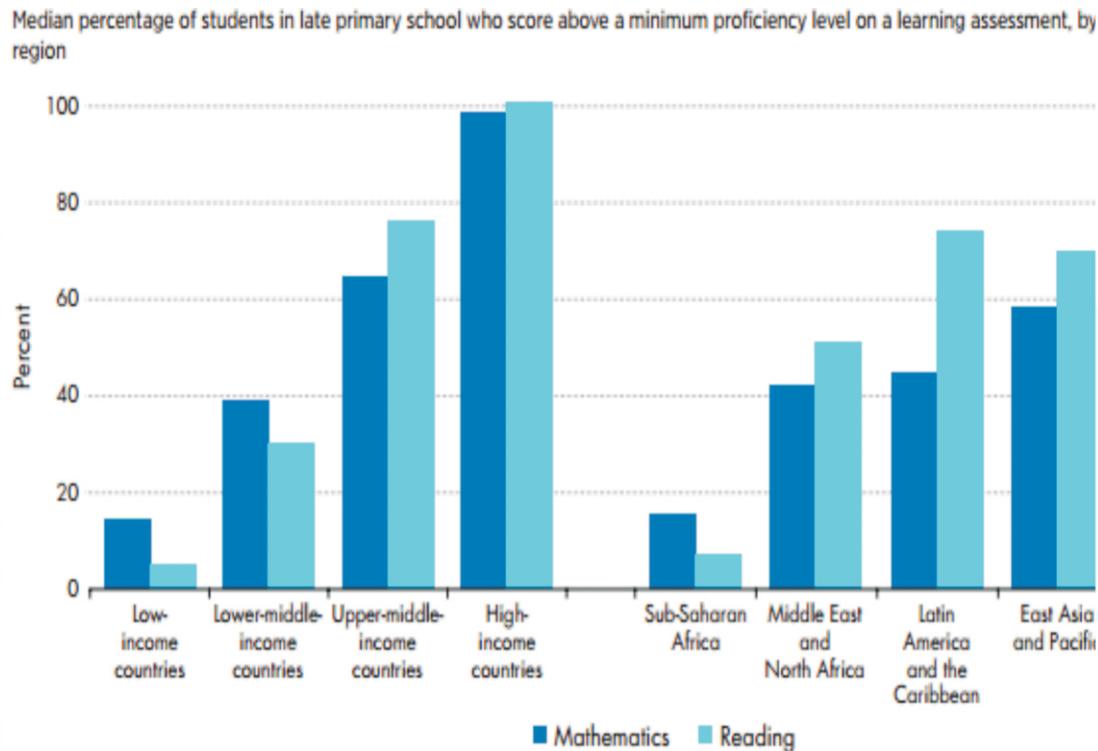

Figure 1: The percentage of primary school students who pass a minimum proficiency threshold is often low. Progress on these indicators is relatively slow. For instance, the report states that it could take 180 years for Tunisia to reach the OECD average for mathematics if the current pace of learning remains unchanged. The report finds that a high share of students complete primary school without the necessary mathematics and reading knowledge. There are regional differences within the continent too (Figure 2). The WDR cites a 2014 regional assessment showing that 58 percent of grade 6 students in West and Central Africa were not sufficiently proficient in reading, though students in East and Southern Africa perform slightly better, with only 37 percent not proficient. Contrastingly, the level of math proficiency is comparable in the two regions, 58 against 60 percent.

Source: WDR 2018 team, using "A Global Data Set on Education Quality" (2017), made available to the team by Nadir Altinok, Noam Angrist, and Harry Anthony Patrill /WDR2018-Fig_0-5.

School attendance does not pose a problem in sub-Saharan Africa. Nevertheless, the learning gaps remain high. Many children are not well-equipped to learn due to illness, malnutrition, or income deprivation. The report also cites the lack of testing as a cause for poor educational achievements. The quality of teaching is poor, as some teachers are not particularly well-educated themselves.

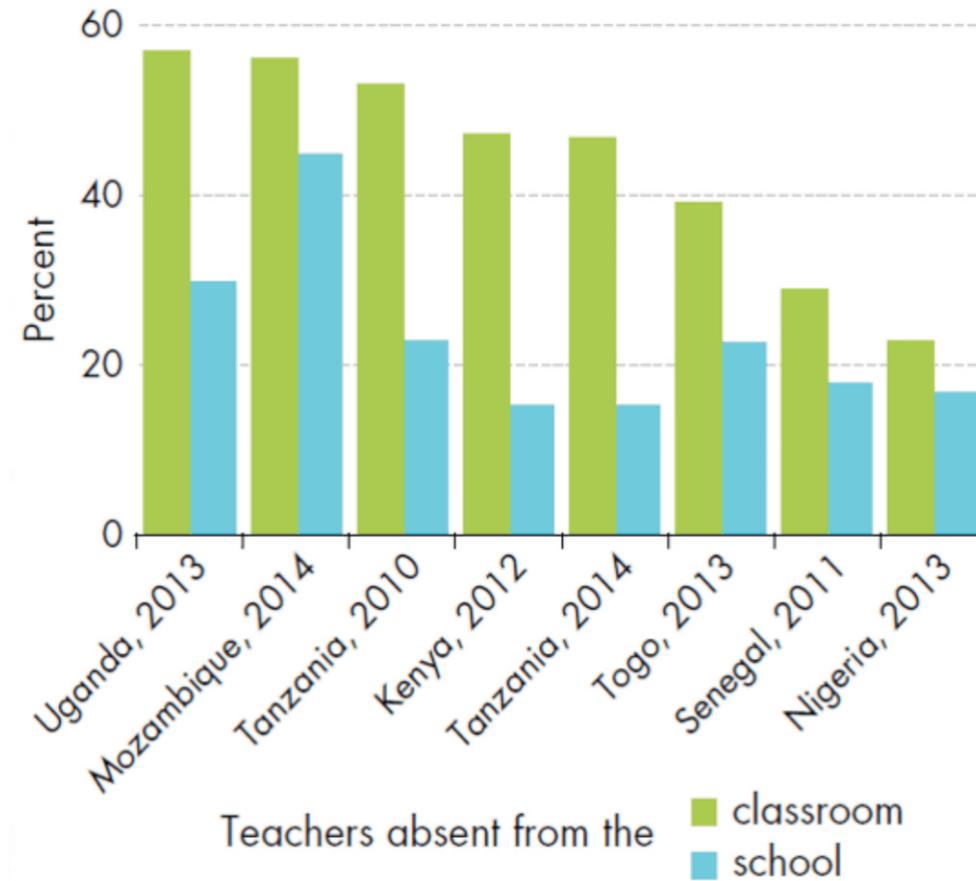

Absenteeism of teachers is also a problem in sub-Saharan Africa. Figure 3 shows the absence of teachers from school overall and those from class. The classroom absence variable combines absences from school with absences from class among teachers who are at school. For instance, in Kenya, the gap between the two variables shows that 32 percent of teachers come into school without attending class. The report suggests that teacher absenteeism can be attributed to low salaries—teachers often have to take on secondary jobs to support themselves. Moreover, in addition to teaching, many teachers find themselves handling administrative tasks normally outside of their purview due to schools being short-staffed.

Competency levels from PASEC (2014), by subject, participating countries

In order to solve the learning crisis, the WDR provides three recommendations. First, countries should put strategies in place to create well-designed student assessments and help teachers guide students toward achieving good learning outcomes. Second, countries should target the areas with the largest gaps between their learning environment and the tools that yield the best learning outcomes. Third, the report suggests aligning actors in order to make the whole system —work for learning.¶

Promoting the Youth Leadership and Entrepreneurship Development through AY-LEDI 2024 Projects

Building the Generations of Our Dream...

Executive Summary

In Africa today the youths are facing the most of hardships and lack of belongingness within the society, they constitutes a big chunk of population, yet remains the most subjugated and marginalized. The difficult circumstances that young people face because of limited opportunities for education and training, viable employment, health and social services, because of the growing incidence of substance abuse and juvenile delinquency are deteriorating the chance of Africans quest for achieving the status of developed nations. Youth imagination, ideals, considerable energies and vision are essential for the continuing development of the continent.

What We Are Going To Do

Iyp is focusing on the most underprivileged youth residing in urban slums, surviving on meager of resources and constantly seeking out a purpose for their life.

Iyp plan to work with the youth who has never been nurtured and reared in a way to develop into a productive generation, this is the reason why Drug Abuse, Political Thuggery, Trafficking, Domestic Violence, cyber Crime and many other petty crimes in the continent is constantly on rise daily and the delinquency amongst them is not detrimental for the youth only but the whole society is on the verge of eruption, as they had no means to devise a solution for their challenges.

Job Creation and Entrepreneurship Development As key AY-LEDI 2024 IYP Project in Africa

Our Priorities

The Unemployment Problem

- Close to 4.3% Of African youth are unemployed and both women in northern Africa between the ages 15-24.
 - Working poverty continues to be wide spread; around 250 million workers in Africa lived in extreme or moderate poverty in 2021/ 2022
 - For instance, the national unemployment rates projected for 2019 range from 1.8% in Ethiopia,6.0%in Nigeria and 18.2% in Botswana, to 27.3% in south Africa
 - 1.50% of unemployed youths are uneducated and unskilled
- Creating jobs and economic opportunities for these people will be vital both for reducing the pool of easy recruits for violent groups and reducing underlying grievances that feed the conflict in the continent

AY-LEDI Policy Objectives

- Stimulate the growth of the young people"s economy with a view to enhancing their capacity to provide more opportunities for vibrant and active young communities through business funds empowerment or self-employment
- Facilitate the emergence of regional entrepreneurial centers class especially amongst the African youth population that would usher in new jobs, new knowledge and utilization of ICT in the continent
- Partner with the private sectors to identify high-demand skills acquisition and vocational and entrepreneurial training
- Establishing training programs linked with African youth ministries and directorates of employment for a full time permanent employment

WHAT WE SHALL DO

- Launch a new, more efficient, cost-effective and sustainable African Entrepreneurship Development and Job Creation Program
- Target the creation of up to 10 million self- and wage-paying employment opportunities in the youth ministries annually
- Target all categories of youth, including graduates, early school leavers as well as the massive numbers of uneducated youth who are currently not in schools, employment or training
- Champion the repositioning and streamlining the activities of the existing countries and their Government Job Creation Agencies

The AY-LEDI 2024 Project Job Creation and Entrepreneurship Pathways

Our Priorities...

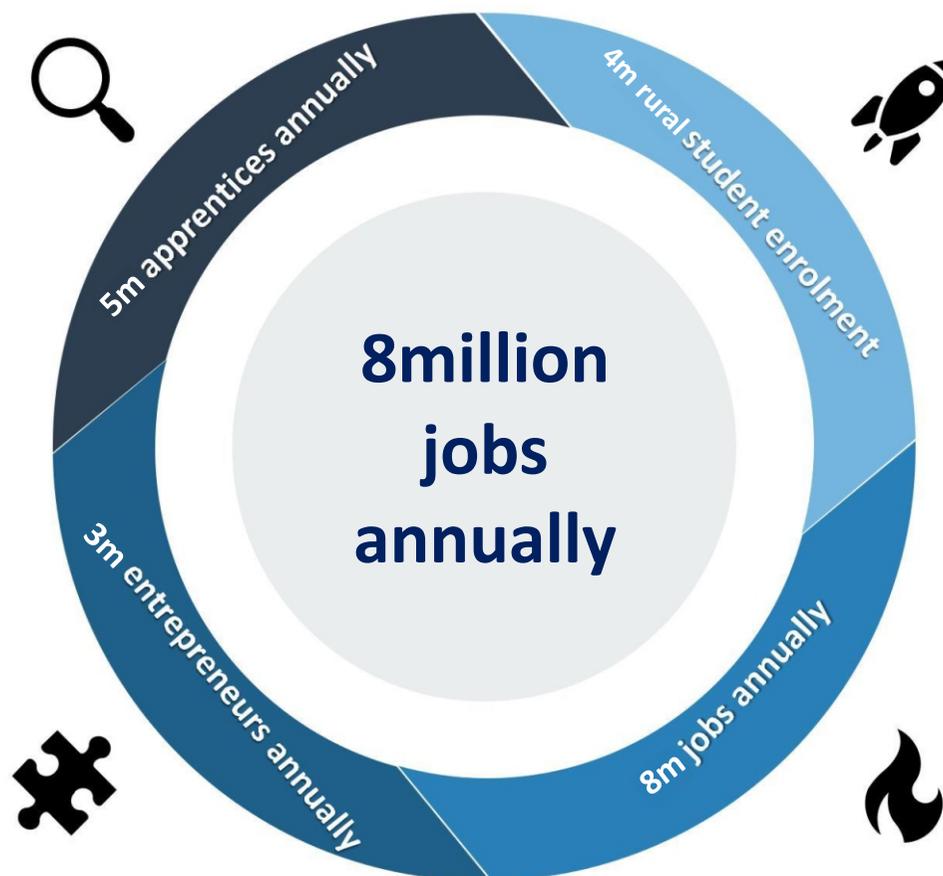

The IYP African Pathway to jobs

To-launch the African free Apprenticeship Programme (AFAP) with special focus on youth and women who may not have had the opportunity to attend school or complete basic education.

This programme will recruit, annually, 200,000 Super Crafts Persons (SCPs) who will be training 5,000,000 apprentices in various trades

The 2024 Entrepreneurship Pathway

- Speedy adoption of the African Research and Innovation project Fund by the African governments
- Grants, loans or equity investments in small enterprises shall be provided either as start-up capital or to scale up innovations
- Introduce, and actively promote, an IYP Graduate Trainee Internship Program (IGTI)
- Apply for technical and young financial capacity of the Industrial Training Fund from World Bank and African Bank Of Industry

The School to Jobs Pathway

Boost the currently identified poor countries school system and re-position the technical colleges and vocational skills acquisition centers in those schools to produce skills and competencies for innovation and the creation of new ideas and products inside enterprises from where future jobs and future prosperity will be delivered in the continent in 2025

IYP /ICT Special Entrepreneurship Pathway

- Prioritize support to the IYP ISE across all the countries
- Facilitate the establishment of the IYP Venture Capital Fund by the government /private sectors
- Facilitate the young people starters take off of the Financial Innovation Fund
- Provide special focus on the ICT boost and aggressively market Africa as an outsourcing destination

AY- LEDI 2024 Poverty Alleviation and African Economic Empowerment

“ Poverty does not simply have one solution; rather it requires the concerted application of many solutions. Africa has vast natural resources, but our challenge remains harnessing these resources for the greatest Future... ”

If it does not affect you, think about the Effects.

Poverty Alleviation and Young Peoples Economic Empowerment

Our Priorities...

The Poverty Problem

- Most countries in Africa are rated as the poorest and most unequal countries in the world, with more than 30.3 million km and 1.3 billion people, or more than 41% of the population living below poverty line
- Africa is growing in number per day as the continent with the largest number of people living in extreme poverty with an estimated 1.3 billion km of the population
- The intensity of poverty varies from 38% (EA,WA and NA) to 45% (MA/SA)
- Unless we act fast, the continent with most of the countries in Africa will be home to 40% of the world's extremely poor People

40m

Lift 40 million youth
Young Africans out of extreme Poverty by 2026

AY-LEDI Policy Objectives

- Lift at least 40 million youth out of extreme poverty by 2026
- Ensure that Iyp Ay-Ledi 2026 economic empowerment and poverty eradication strategies are coherent and consistent with the strategies to implement the SDGs Agenda 2030
- Reconcile the link between young people's economic promotion growth and human development through proper selection of effective African youth charter polices on education and health
- Set as our major policy objective the implementation transformation of the agricultural sector into a viable high-income generating enterprise for the youth in rural communities

What we shall do

- Provide skill acquisition opportunities and enterprise development for job and wealth creation, rather than direct cash distribution
- Promote youths' access to basic infrastructure services – water, sanitation, power, education and health care
- Fight the removal of all forms of discrimination against the marginalized and vulnerable youth and enhance their access to education and business income generating activities
- Partner with heads of states to Implement pro-poor polices that will enhance youth participation in economic activities and improve household income
- Work more closely with governments, NGO's, the private Sector and other development partners to mobilize resources for the effective Implementation of young people's empowerment Strategy

PLEASE SUPPORT OUR PROJECT (AY-LEDI 2024 PROJECT INITIATIVES)

Why is this different? Is it?

- The International Youth Parliament (IYP) has a good grasp of the challenges facing the African youth and globally. Not the superficial issues but the systemic ones
- Learning from the mistakes of the African leaders, consolidate on the successes of MDGs and build the future
- An unwavering commitment to the principles of Empowerment, innovation, Skill Acquisition and Entrepreneurship with competitive and success-driven economy for the youth
- Commitment to build Young Leaders institutions

The AY-LEDI skills acquisition program will explore the four main types of empowerment programs

Entrepreneurship

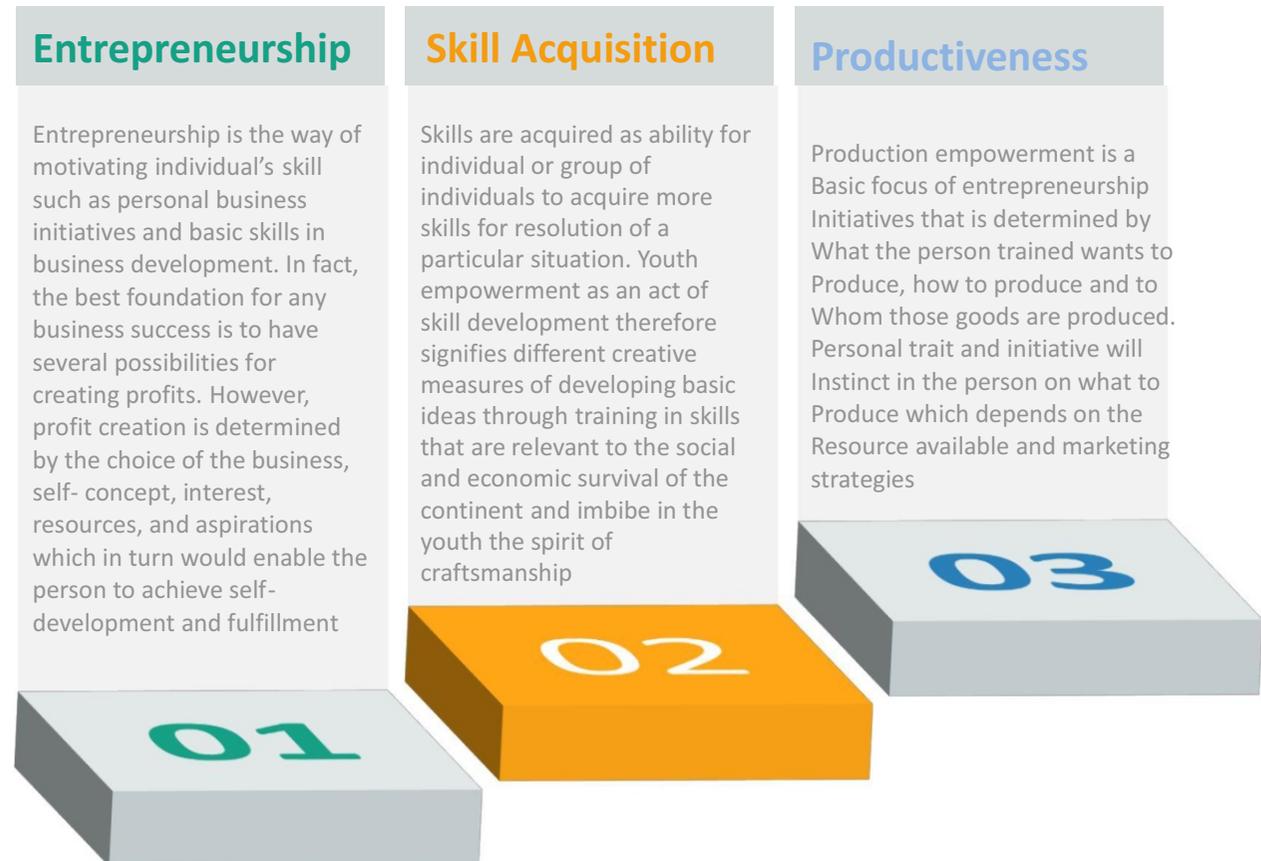

Entrepreneurship is the way of motivating individual's skill such as personal business initiatives and basic skills in business development. In fact, the best foundation for any business success is to have several possibilities for creating profits. However, profit creation is determined by the choice of the business, self- concept, interest, resources, and aspirations which in turn would enable the person to achieve self-development and fulfillment

Skill Acquisition

Skills are acquired as ability for individual or group of individuals to acquire more skills for resolution of a particular situation. Youth empowerment as an act of skill development therefore signifies different creative measures of developing basic ideas through training in skills that are relevant to the social and economic survival of the continent and imbibe in the youth the spirit of craftsmanship

Productiveness

Production empowerment is a Basic focus of entrepreneurship Initiatives that is determined by What the person trained wants to Produce, how to produce and to Whom those goods are produced. Personal trait and initiative will Instinct in the person on what to Produce which depends on the Resource available and marketing strategies

Direct Target Group

“The Youth in rural African communities would be fully integrated and empowered; AY-LEDI Project team will make sure all participant fully complete the program successfully”

Youth Engagement and Contribution

Our Priorities...

Overview

- Allow youth engagement to take different shapes. This will include youth expression, youth involvement in community service, and creating opportunities for young people's decision making at all levels of government.
- This will also include programs that provide structure for young leader's contribution.

Policy Objectives

- Promote and offer opportunities for youth to participate in leadership and decision making process
- Support youth to volunteer and contribute in their community
- Promote youth led initiatives and other opportunities for youth innovation and enterprise
- Consult youth on design and implantation of programs

What we shall do

- Strengthen youth and encourage them more to do business with international collaboration
- Improve the entrepreneurship start-up funds by providing financing and infrastructure for those in rural areas
Encourage countries to give youth voice a chance in decision making policy and political advancements responsibilities
- Enforce and protect young people's rights, for them to freely contribute without fear or unjust persecution
- Create opportunities for youth civic engagement and advocacy
- Support youth participation in political parties and processes

Safe Spaces

Our Priorities...

Youth

- Create safe spaces that are tailored to the needs of youth in the continent- including skill training base centers as well as environmental safety
- Over time, space has been defined in a variety of ways, including virtual. Many communities in Africa lack any space for youth to convene
- AY- LEDI 2024 project is committed to providing youth with safe spaces to practice, engage, and learn creatively and collaboratively. An emotionally safe space is critical to learning

Policy Objectives

- Establish rural centers with huge capacity to train many youth and ensure all genders, class and sexual orientation feel comfortable to express themselves in safe spaces within the period
- Build the enabling infrastructure to add value to the African economy via the development of training facilities
- Involve youth in defining and maintaining safe spaces to establish youth ownership and accountability with new opportunities

What we shall do

- Ensure youth spaces are protective, accessible and free from things that cause harm
- Fight sexual harassment issues and abuse of child rights in collaboration with Aids Foundation of South Africa Agenda on sexual and reproductive Rights campaign
- Sensitize African leaders on importance of providing structured and safe activities for the youth
